

PASTOR CITES FOUR EVILS AT LINCOLN FETE

"Lincoln left us, as Americans, a duty to dedicate ourselves to the unfinished task . . . that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth," the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, pastor of the Gettysburg Methodist church, declared at the annual Lincoln's birthday celebration held by the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Union Veterans, Friday evening in the GAR Post home.

"In our gratitude for being Americans we should accept this duty humbly," the Rev. Mr. Gibson said. "Gratitude, cooperation and dedication" were outlined as "our watchwords" in the days ahead. Cooperation was described as "absolutely essential if we are to continue to be a great and mighty nation. That cooperation must extend not only to smaller groups and among ourselves but to international affairs."

Cites Four Evils

"The four evils the nation must fight are hypocrisy, intolerance, greed and hate, all of which are dangerous to our progress as a nation. To make the nations of the world look to democracy for their salvation we must be a truly democratic nation. The constitution says that all men are created equal, but how many believe that today? Yet the holy scripture says the same thing even more strongly in 'Let Nothing be done through strife or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than themselves.'"

"Let us face the task before us with the knowledge that sometime in the future we will again reach the day when the Christmas song of the angels, 'Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth to men of good will' will be the theme of all mankind."

Hear Program

W. Preston Hull presided at the program. The Rev. N. B. S. Thomas, pastor of the local United Brethren church, pronounced the invocation and benediction.

INVASION AREA POUNDED AGAIN BY YANK FLIERS

By W. W. HERCHER

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—American Liberators swept over the French invasion coast near Pas-de-Calais in strength today, resuming a pounding of Nazi defenses which has been going on relentlessly during 40 of the last 54 days.

Opening a daylight assault with a cover of Thunderbolts and Mustangs against the neck of continental land nearest Britain, the Liberators carried out the 18th mission of the American Air Force in the last 16 days in the wake of yesterday's heavy Fortress blow at Frankfurt and a Mosquito mission by the RAF over western and central Germany last night.

Down 37 Nazis

Shortly after the Liberators struck, RAF fighters and other strong Allied formations winged out to follow up the initial daylight sorties that began with the dawn.

Thirty-seven Nazi planes were downed yesterday during operations in which American fighters made the greatest number of sorties ever flown from British bases. Five U.S. bombers and 15 fighters, one of them British, were lost.

Besides pounding Frankfurt for the second time in four days, the Fortresses yesterday struck at unspecified objectives in Germany while U. S. Liberators and Marauders and RAF Mosquitoes lashed at the French invasion coast.

A few German hit-run raiders dropped bombs on London last night, killing some persons. A southeastern town also was hit.

Lodging Houses To Be Listed By C. Of C.

Proprietors of lodging houses in Gettysburg and any others who have rooms or apartments to rent were asked today to register their facilities with the Chamber of Commerce to help fill the steady stream of requests being received there for accommodations.

President Mares Sherman said that inquiries are received daily at the Chamber office for rooms or apartments in Gettysburg. So that the Chamber rooming house register which was set up last year may be brought up to date, persons with rooms to let are asked to telephone the Chamber office and report that information.

"I am sure that many persons who are constantly seeking accommodations in Gettysburg can be quartered here if the Chamber office had complete information on hand concerning local facilities," Mr. Sherman stated.

LOCAL SALVAGE DRIVE TUESDAY

Gettysburg's salvage drive next Tuesday will be part of the county-wide drive for wastepaper, Vernon B. Corle, chairman of the firemen's salvage committee, said today.

All wastepaper collected during the campaign will be credited to the borough as its part of the county-wide drive scheduled for February 19, 20, 21 and 22, Corle stated. Because the local firemen had already set up plans to make the drive Tuesday, the county chairman, Dr. Eugene Elgin, agreed to allow the Gettysburg campaign to open earlier.

The drive is designed to be the county's answer to the challenge laid down to state salvage authorities to raise enough scrap paper to supply the tremendous needs for paper containers and packing material of the U. S. armed forces.

The firemen here will be seeking at least 10 tons of scrap paper along with other salvage materials when they make their rounds of the town Tuesday afternoon and evening. Following usual custom the firemen will drive through all of the streets of town picking up salvage materials placed by town residents on the sidewalks in front of their homes.

BLACK WALNUT SCOUTS REPORT ON BOND SALES

Scouts in the Black Walnut district have secured pledges for war bonds totalling $6,050 during the campaign starting Tuesday, Dr. Frederick Tilberg, district head, said today. The figures were based on the reports turned in to district headquarters Friday.

Leading troop was the Cashtown group, sponsored by the Cashtown fire company, which secured pledges for 97 bonds, totalling $2,425. Troop 77, sponsored by the Gettysburg Lions and Rotary clubs, is second with 51 bonds totalling $1,400 and Troop 78, sponsored by St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, is third with 22 bonds totalling $850. The scouts will continue their drive until next Tuesday. Until this evening the scouts are confined to certain areas within which they can seek pledges, after tonight they will be permitted to go anywhere in the district to ask persons to pledge themselves to buy bonds.

Heard On Radio

Four scouts of the Black Walnut district took part in radio programs over two York stations Friday afternoon to boost the sale of war bonds during the current Fourth War Loan campaign.

Raymond Bisbing, leading bond pledge solicitor for Troop 79, connected with St. James Lutheran church here; Charles Bender, top solicitor for Troop 80, Christ Lutheran church, and Samuel Becker, leading solicitor for Troop 78, St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, were the Gettysburg boys in the contingent. John W. Bream, Jr., leading bond pledge salesman for the Cashtown troop represented that community on the program.

Representatives of the Biglerville, Bendersville and Arendtsville troops were unable to attend the York program due to the inclement weather. Troop 77 was the only Gettysburg troop not represented.

Interviewed by Zaner

The program was one of a series being held during the week by the York-Adams area of the scouts to promote the "Scouts as Gleaners" campaign during Scout Week in which the boys are making a house to house canvass throughout York and Adams county to urge people to sign pledges stating they will buy bonds during the current campaign. The Black Walnut district program was on station W-ORK at 4:45 o'clock Friday afternoon and on WBSA at 5:45 o'clock. Dean Tilberg spoke briefly on the second program.

Ray F. Zaner, chief executive of the York-Adams area, interviewed the four youngsters on their scouting activities and war bond selling campaign. He told the youngsters of the reason for renaming the former Gettysburg district the Black Walnut district because of the black walnuts gathered by scouts of the western Adams county district a number of years ago. The walnuts were planted in 38 states. All were gathered from the Gettysburg battlefield.

Scouts of the Conewago district which includes Littlestown, New Oxford and other eastern Adams county troops were heard on a program on Thursday afternoon.

Allied Warships Help To Bolster Rome Bridgehead

ALLIES BLAST JAP POSITIONS FROM AIR, SEA

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
(Associated Press War Editor)

The Allies loosed a torrent of air and sea-borne destruction on Japanese positions over a broad expanse of the Pacific to keep up the unceasing assault on Nippon's island empire.

Far-ranging warplanes cascaded more than 450 tons on enemy bases in the New Guinea-Britain sector, at Wake Island and in the Marshalls, where an "important enemy-held atoll" was shelled by units of the U. S. Pacific fleet.

Japan's ability to supply holdings far from home suffered a fresh setback with the disclosure by Secretary Knox that American submarines had sunk 12 more Japanese ships, raising the total to 584 vessels destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged.

Blast Airdrome

In the most massive of the latest plane-ship attacks, General MacArthur's bombers dropped 200 tons of explosives Wednesday on the Boran airdrome and supply area of Wewak, 200 miles northwest of Madang, to weaken further the enemy's crumbling defenses for northern New Guinea.

Another 60 tons crashed down in Madang, major Japanese shipping center imperiled by Allied occupation of the Huon peninsula and juncture of Australian and American troops below Saidor, 55 miles southeast of the bombport.

Navy Coronado bombers pounced on little Wake Island Thursday for the second successive day but the results of the raid were not announced. Not a plane was lost in the 13th foray of the war against the former American possession in the central Pacific.

The telegram stated that Pvt. Weishaar "is seriously ill in the North African area as a result of accidental injuries February 5. He suffered a fractured skull and cerebral concussion. Letter will follow."

Pvt. Weishaar, a member of the military police, took part in the invasions of Africa and Sicily and suffered his first injury during the Christmas period when he broke his right wrist in another accident. He apparently had just left the hospital when the latest mishap occurred.

He enlisted January 4, 1941, in the U. S. Army and was employed at the Beaudin Shoe company prior to entering the service.

A brother, Pfc. Raymond Weishaar is also in the service and at present is on maneuvers. He is with the glider infantry.

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Feb. 12 (AP)—Allied warships thundering into action have helped repulse a new German assault on the storm-swept invasion bridgehead below Rome, and a headquarters officer declared today that despite Nazi pressure the front lines there have "remained relatively unchanged during the past few days."

Arrows show where the Germans are striking the front line of the Allied Fifth Army bridgehead south of Rome. Americans withstood attacks west of Cisterna and British oppose other offensive moves north and west of Carroceto.

On the Cassino front to the east, American forces made new gains to bitter struggles within that town, and in the hills to the west drove within a mile of the Via Casilina, the Germans' only corridor into the city.

Rain, snow, sleet and gales cancelled Allied air blows against the Germans pressing against the invasion bridgehead, leaving the Germans free to move up troops and supplies harried only by naval and land artillery bombardment.

The single Nazi attack yesterday was flung unsuccessfully against American troops in the area west of Cisterna, headquarters said, where hard fighting continues.

Naval units including the British cruisers Mauritius of 8,000 tons and Dido of 5,450 tons moved close inshore to shell the left flank of the Germans as they attacked.

Gales Sweep Fields

Forty-five mile gales were reported sweeping the battlefields, however, holding air activity to a minimum.

(The British radio, quoting reports from the front, said early today that Allied troops advanced slightly at two points in the Carroceo area, gaining possession of "a useful road network and a bridgehead across a fast stream in sectors where the German counter-attacks have been strongest.") The broadcast was recorded by CBS.)

A dispatch from Norman Clark, representing the combined British press, said Allied troops returned to the attack yesterday morning and "are fighting again in the area of the battle-scarred red brick buildings of Carroceto." He added that the Germans were defying calls to surrender and were only being ousted "by the grenade and bayonet."

(The Germans yesterday claimed the capture of the Carroceto railroad station.)

Tanks In Action.

On the main Fifth Army front, meanwhile, American tanks continued to blast the Germans out of their sniper nests in the shell-torn houses of Cassino, where a non-quarter battle has been ranging for 11 days.

A dispatch from that front said last night that Allied artillerymen were throwing shell after shell at Monte Cassino, laying a necklace of steel around the hill, 100 yards below the famed monastery. The gunners were still carefully avoiding the abbey, although officers said it definitely was being used by the Germans as an observation post.

Scouts in the Black Walnut district have secured pledges for war bonds totalling $6,050 during the campaign starting Tuesday. Dr. Frederick Tilberg, district head, said today. The figures were based on the reports turned in to district headquarters Friday.

Leading troop was the Cashtown group, sponsored by the Cashtown fire company, which secured pledges for 97 bonds, totalling $2,425. Troop 77, sponsored by the Gettysburg Lions and Rotary clubs, is second with 51 bonds totalling $1,400 and Troop 78, sponsored by St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, is third with 22 bonds totalling $850. The scouts will continue their drive until next Tuesday. Until this evening the scouts are confined to certain areas within which they can seek pledges, after tonight they will be permitted to go anywhere in the district to ask persons to pledge themselves to buy bonds.

Heard On Radio

Four scouts of the Black Walnut district took part in radio programs over two York stations Friday afternoon to boost the sale of war bonds during the current Fourth War Loan campaign.

Raymond Bisbing, leading bond pledge solicitor for Troop 79, connected with St. James Lutheran church here; Charles Bender, top solicitor for Troop 80, Christ Lutheran church, and Samuel Becker, leading solicitor for Troop 78, St. Francis Xavier Catholic church, were the Gettysburg boys in the contingent. John W. Bream, Jr., leading bond pledge salesman for the Cashtown troop represented that community on the program.

Representatives of the Biglerville, Benderville and Arendtsville troops were unable to attend the York program due to the inclement weather. Troop 77 was the only Gettysburg troop not represented.

The program was one of a series being held during the week by the York-Adams area of the scouts to promote the "Scouts as Gleaners" campaign during Scout Week in which the boys are making a house to house canvass throughout York and Adams county to urge people to sign pledges stating they will buy bonds during the current campaign. The Black Walnut district program was on station WORK at 4:45 o'clock Friday afternoon and on WSBA at 5:45 o'clock. Dean Tilberg spoke briefly on the second program.

Ray F. Zaner, chief executive of the York-Adams area, interviewed the four youngsters on their scouting activities and war bond selling campaign. He told the youngsters of the reason for renaming the former Gettysburg district the Black Walnut district because of the black walnuts gathered by scouts of the western Adams county district a number of years ago. The walnuts were planted in 38 states. All were gathered from the Gettysburg battlefield.

Scouts of the Conewago district which includes Littlestown, New Oxford and other eastern Adams county troops were heard on a program on Thursday afternoon.

Last year when the Carlisle barracks soldier personnel presented "See Here, Mr. Smith" the entire cast was served a spaghetti dinner by the Elks.

Allied Warships Help To Bolster Rome Bridgehead

ALLIES BLAST JAP POSITIONS FROM AIR, SEA

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
(Associated Press War Editor)

The Allies loosed a torrent of air and sea-borne destruction on Japanese positions over a broad expanse of the Pacific to keep up the unceasing assault on Nippon's island empire.

Far-ranging warplanes cascaded more than 450 tons on enemy bases in the New Guinea-Britain sector, at Wake Island and in the Marshalls, where an "important enemy-held atoll" was shelled by units of the U. S. Pacific fleet.

Japan's ability to supply holdings far from home suffered a fresh setback with the disclosure by Secretary Knox that American submarines had sunk 12 more Nipponese ships, raising the total to 584 vessels destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged.

Blast Airdrome

In the most massive of the latest plane-ship attacks, General MacArthur's bombers dropped 200 tons of explosives Wednesday on the Borom airdrome and supply area of Wewak, 200 miles northwest of Madang, to weaken further the enemy's crumbling defenses for northern New Guinea.

Another 60 tons crashed down in Madang, major Japanese shipping center imperiled by Allied occupation of the Huon peninsula and juncture of Australian and American troops below Saidor, 55 miles southeast of the bombport.

Navy Coronado bombers pounced on little Wake Island Thursday for the second successive day but the results of the raid were not announced. Not a plane was lost in the 13th day of the war against the former American possession in the central Pacific.

Pvt. Weishaar, a member of the military police, took part in the invasions of Africa and Sicily and suffered his first injury during the Christmas period when he broke his right wrist in another accident. He apparently had just left the hospital when the latest mishap occurred.

He enlisted January 4, 1941, in the U. S. Army and was employed at the Beaudin Shoe company prior to entering the service.

A brother, Pfc. Raymond Weishaar is also in the service and at present is on maneuvers. He is with the glider infantry.

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Feb. 12 (AP)—Allied warships thundering into action have helped repulse a new German assault on the storm-swept invasion bridgehead below Rome, and a headquarters officer declared today that despite Nazi pressure the front lines there have "remained relatively unchanged during the past few days."

Arrows show where the Germans are striking the front line of the Allied Fifth Army bridgehead south of Rome. Americans withstood attacks west of Cisterna and British oppose other offensive moves north and west of Carroceto.

On the Cassino front to the east, American forces made new gains to bitter struggles within that town, and in the hills to the west drove within a mile of the Via Casilina, the Germans' only corridor into the city.

Rain, snow, sleet and gales cancelled Allied air blows against the Germans pressing against the invasion bridgehead, leaving the Germans free to move up troops and supplies harried only by naval and land artillery bombardment.

The single Nazi attack yesterday was flung unsuccessfully against American troops in the area west of Cisterna, headquarters said, where hard fighting continues.

Naval units including the British cruisers Mauritius of 8,000 tons and Dido of 5,450 tons moved close inshore to shell the left flank of the Germans as they attacked.

Gales Sweep Fields

Forty-five mile gales were reported sweeping the battlefields, however, holding air activity to a minimum.

A dispatch from Norman Clark, representing the combined British press, said Allied troops returned to the attack yesterday morning and "are fighting again in the area of the battle-scarred red brick buildings of Carroceto." He added that the Germans were defying calls to surrender and were only being ousted "by the grenade and bayonet."

(The Germans yesterday claimed the capture of the Carroceto railroad station.)

Tanks In Action.

On the main Fifth Army front, meanwhile, American tanks continued to blast the Germans out of their sniper nests in the shell-torn houses of Cassino, where a non-quarter battle has been ranging for 11 days.

A dispatch from that front said last night that Allied artillerymen were throwing shell after shell at Monte Cassino, laying a necklace of steel around the hill, 100 yards below the famed monastery. The gunners were still carefully avoiding the abbey, although officers said it definitely was being used by the Germans as an observation post.

HITLER SEEKS TO HIDE NAZIS' FATE IN RUSSIA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

One of the several pressing reasons why Hitler is risking his shirt to win a sensational victory at the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead below Rome—and he has created a very serious situation indeed for the Allies—is to distract the attention of his people and wavering allies from his own dire straits on the Russian front.

As the signs now lead we cannot be far off from a general withdrawal of the whole vast Nazi force. This was some 1,200 miles long in its more prosperous days, but the Red Armies have driven it so full of salients that it now totals over 2,000 serpentine miles—an unwieldy and highly vulnerable battle line. The wonder is—and this is a tribute to German generalship—that the Nazis haven't been stampeded long before this.

In Death-Trap

The present three great Russian offensives against this line—north, center and south—are acting as mighty levers that are detaching the Hitlerites from strategic anchors without which the front cannot continue to hold. The northern two-thirds of it will have to pull back at least to positions running from the vicinity of Riga, Latvia, southward through Brest Litovsk, in pre-war Poland, to the Carpathians.

Meanwhile Marshal von Manstein's forces on the extreme southern wing, which have been clinging so stubbornly to the Dnieper bend death-trap, are in the astonishing position of having been swung around until they are facing north by northeast and project dangerously eastward from the rest of the line. This has been brought about by the Red drive from Kiev westward into Poland.

Thus Manstein's Dnieper bend troops have their backs towards the Bessarabian border, and whatever forces he is able to save from annihilation will have to retreat to the Dnieper river, which forms this border, unless there is a sharp change in the present position. That's the crisis which Hitler has been trying to avoid—being driven up against this Bessarabian gateway to the Balkans. He's terrified that such a retreat will precipitate an upheaval among his Balkan satellites—a fear fully justified by the present state of unrest and revolt.

Suicide Task

As I previously have pointed out in this column, it undoubtedly has been this fear which has impelled the Nazi chief to assign his army in the Dnieper bend to the suicide task of holding to the bitter end. Von Manstein is too good a soldier to have clung to such a position unless he was working under orders from the big boss.

There is one peculiar development which might work to Hitler's advantage and enable him to delay his general withdrawal a bit. This is the phenomenal arrival of spring already in parts of the Russian front—something which, according to the experts, hasn't happened before in generations.

As a result of the warm weather, the dread mud has made its appearance to hamper military operations. The Muscovites get the worst of this deal because they are the ones who are on the offensive, whereas the greatest desire of the Nazis is to be allowed to sit undisturbed. Only time will tell whether this peculiar weather means a long, wet spring which would impede the Russians, or whether it presages an equally early summer, which would enable the eager Red troops to get ahead with their job.

In any event, fate has written that the Hitlerites will have to pull back towards the fatherland to new positions in the not too distant future. The Nazi propagandists appear to be preparing the German people for this move, which is going to be a terrific shock to them.

Empty Shelves Face Tardy Proprietors

Hundreds of hotels, restaurants, diners and clubs in this area, whose owners have failed to file their R-1307 supplement form with their local War Price and Rationing boards will be faced with empty kitchen shelves after March 1, the Harrisburg district OPA Office declared today following a survey of the 24 local boards in this district.

Unless proprietors of these delinquent food establishments file this form immediately with their local boards, cautioned OPA, there is little likelihood that they will have on hand sufficient food to satisfy diners when they exhaust their present allotment which expires on February 29.

Trojan Coach Will Enter Service Soon

Lowell Schlachter, whose Chambersburg high Trojans are undefeated and appear headed for the Southern Pennsylvania basketball league title, was granted a leave of absence at a meeting of the Chambersburg school board Thursday evening.

Schlachter expects to be called about March 1 for duty with the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Deferments For Lumbermen Fought

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Proponents of legislation to defer workers in the lumber and logging industry from military induction faced strenuous opposition today from the Army, the Selective Service system and the War Manpower commission.

Representatives of the three agencies testified against the measure before a House Military subcommittee yesterday. The lumber industry had contended that their workers were essential to the war effort and should be deferred from the draft automatically.

Col. Francis W. Keesling of the Selective Service system said the agency doesn't want its already-depleted pool of draft age men lessened.

Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of War, told the subcommittee the Army already is 200,000 men short of its induction quota.

Juvenile Troubles Laid To Families

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Relaxation of family control is responsible for the "disturbing" 14.7 per cent increase in juvenile delinquency cases in Allegheny county in 1943, Juvenile Court Judge Gustav L. Schramm announced in his annual report.

There were 3,107 new delinquency cases last year, compared to 2,709 in 1942, he said, adding:

"It is evident many of our children are being unsettled by the violence of war. On the radio, in the newspapers and in the movies children are exposed daily to the atrocities and violence of war.

"The relaxation of normal control over children by families is an inevitable by-product of the kind of total war we are fighting."

Judge Schramm declared the increase in "ungovernables" included truants, runaways, sex offenders and incorrigibles. An increasing number of girls, especially in the 14 to 16 age group, are coming before the court, he said.

Tradition places the castle of "Old King Cole" of the nursery rhymes in Colchester, Essex, England.

HOPE FOR VETO OF ACT ENDING ALL SUBSIDIES

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Administration leaders in Congress expressed new hope today that an overwhelming vote to end subsidies will be nullified by a quick presidential veto.

The Senate followed the lead of the House in voting by a resounding 43 to 28 majority late yesterday to cut off subsidy food price controls, but administration supporters were confident a presidential veto would be forthcoming and that it would be sustained.

One of them, Senator Ellender (D-La.), predicted subsidy payments would go on without interruption. "I have no doubt that the President will direct that the subsidy program be continued if his veto is sustained," Ellender said, "and I think it is going to be sustained."

He referred to the administration's projected plan to pay out about $1,500,000,000 in subsidy payments to farmers and food processors in 1944 to offset production cost increases that otherwise would be passed on to consumers.

Meanwhile the Senate version of the repealer, representing a sharp rebuke to the administration's price stabilization policy, was on its way back to the house, where Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) predicted it would be accepted promptly. The House meets Monday.

EXPECT ACCORD IN POLISH CASE

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Confidence that the Russo-Polish dispute and other Russian territorial problems will be solved without harm to the United Nations movement persisted in official quarters here today despite reports that Moscow had rejected another Allied offer to help clear up the difficulties.

The latest move, London said, was a proposal from Prime Minister Churchill to Premier Stalin apparently offering British aid in helping bring the Russian and Polish governments together.

Stalin was reported to have turned down the proposals politely with a statement of his reluctance to deal with certain members of the exiled Polish government he said were anti-Russian.

The disclosure that Churchill had written Stalin suggested the possibility that President Roosevelt also might be using some persuasions in the interest of an eventual reconciliation of Russian and Polish interests.

Washington concern appears to be not so much with the particular kind of solution worked out for the Russo-Polish frontier question as in averting a destruction of the belief that the leading United Nations can work together.

Stops To Clear His Windshield; Truck Hit

No one was injured when a car driven by Charles E. Wolf, East Berlin R. 2, crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Keller J. Bucher, Littlestown, one and one-half miles south of Hampton on the Cross Keys road at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Total damage was $125. The accident occurred according to Private Anthony Martin of the local state police when Bucher pulled his truck to the left of the road and stopped in order to clear ice from his windshield. Wolf, who was driving behind the Bucher truck, was unable to stop. No charges were laid.

WILLKIE RAPS REGIME OF FDR FOR DISUNITY

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 12 (AP)—Wendell Willkie 'has accused' the Democratic administration with fostering disunity on the home front.

In a Lincoln Day banquet address here last night he warned:

"We cannot survive as a nation divided against itself. The penalty of disunity is as heavy today as it was in Lincoln's time. Indeed, it may be greater."

The 1940 Republican nominee, who told a Baker, Oregon, railroad station group informally Wednesday night that he expected to be his party's 1944 standard bearer climaxed his Pacific Northwest visit with four speeches here last night. He goes to California from here to be a guest of Gov. Earl Warren, who has been mentioned as a possibility in the national Republican race.

Dewey Talks Tonight

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey is scheduled to address about 1,400 Republicans from 20 states at a Lincoln Day dinner in the National Republican club tonight.

The club said Dewey had requested that his speech not be broadcast, and associates of the Governor said there was no political significance in this request.

Addresses of other speakers, including Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, are to be broadcast over local station WQXR.

Homage To Lincoln

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace and other notables joined with Illinois citizens today in paying homage, at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln as part of the nation's observance of the 135th anniversary of the birth of the Civil War President.

President Roosevelt has sent a wreath to be placed upon the state-ly, snow-banked tomb, and it was to be presented in his behalf by Wallace this afternoon.

Warren H. Atherton, National Commander of the American Legion, was to lead the legion's 10th annual pilgrimage to the tomb of the martyred president, while Governor Dwight H. Green was to head a group of state officials to the national shrine.

Receptions and special events were planned in Springfield, where Lincoln lived for many years before his election to the presidency.

Bricker In Capital

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Political supporters of John W. Bricker claimed today the three-term Ohio governor had notably advanced his chances for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination during a three-day visit to Washington.

Bricker, 50-year-old Chief Executive of the Buckeye State, advocated a constitutional amendment limiting the presidential term to eight years. "Hitting at Democratic talk of a fourth nomination for President Roosevelt, he said he favored either a single six-year term or two four-year terms."

Bricker told a gathering of newsmen and guests at the National Press club yesterday that he favored some form of international setup to insure peace in the postwar world but that he did not believe in pledging the United States to any system which would endanger its freedom of action.

1,000 Miners Idle In Work Dispute

Shenandoah, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—One thousand miners at the Knickerbocker colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company stayed away from their jobs a second day Friday in a dispute over the discharge of a fellow worker.

A United Mine Workers' committee was appointed last night to attempt a settlement. The company had announced earlier that it would not negotiate until production was resumed.

UMW leaders said miners in other Philadelphia and Reading collieries might join the walkout unless agreement was reached quickly.

The dispute centered around Julius Barowsky, who the union said was discharged because he advised certain miners not to work at two jobs. The company said Barowsky was dismissed for interfering with management.

Miss Lena Boyer, also a member of the faculty, was also absent during the week due to illness.

THE MIRACULOUS USES OF PLASMA PARTS ARE TOLD

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Red Cross blood plasma, which has been the foremost lifesaver of American wounded, has been split into a number of fractions each of which is as miraculous as plasma.

"These fractions, and their production for the armed forces on a big scale, most of them military secrets until now, were described to the New York section of the American Chemical Society here last night by Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, of Harvard University.

One fraction, Albumin, does all the work of plasma and only one fifth volume is required.

Surgery Aid

A second, of the globulins which protect man from many diseases, is the best preventive and treatment for measles yet found and is in large-scale production for the armed forces.

A third, made of two of the blood's clotting elements, is a new plastic, which looks like a cross between nylon and rubber, and is in use in surgery where sheets of it have been substituted for lost layers of lining over the brain.

Two others are new substances that quickly stop bleeding in wounds.

A sixth is the isohemagglutinins which define the different types of blood, and is in use in military typing.

Housewives To Be Trained As Cops

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Some Pittsburgh women may soon have an opportunity to swap the housewife's rolling pin for the night stick of a traffic cop.

Safety Director George E. A. Fairley has announced a plan whereby women will replace about 125 or 150 policemen now on school duties and other traffic assignments and so relieve an acute shortage of police.

"Women have shown themselves capable in industry and other city service jobs, and New York, and Cleveland both are using women police officers successfully," Fairley said.

3 Bolivian Officials Resign In Shakeup

La Paz, Bolivia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Three Bolivian government officials have resigned in a shakeup of the Revolutionary regime and Air Force Chief Lt. Col. Alfredo Pacheco, who is regarded as pro-Allied, has been appointed Minister of the Interior.

(Finance Minister Victor Paz Estenssoro, who master-minded the December coup which placed the present regime in power, was quoted in Buenos Aires as saying in a telephone conversation that it was hoped the changes would bring early recognition of the regime by the United States and the 18 other American nations which have refused to deal diplomatically with the new government.)

RUSSIANS CRASH THROUGH NAZIS' STRONGEST LINE

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Crashing through possibly the strongest German fortifications on the eastern front, Red Army forces have captured the rail center of Shepetovka and tightened their noose around the Cherkassy death trap 200 miles to the east where remnants of 100,000 Nazi troops are being liquidated.

Shepetovka, main distribution point for German reserves and supplies on the Ukrainian front for the past two years, is the hub of a network of rail lines feeding into Poland, Rumania, and Hungary. Its capture by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's First Ukrainian Army set up an excellent base for new offensives toward Odessa and Warsaw, Moscow dispatches said.

Vatutin and his veterans won a citation from Premier Stalin in a special order of the day for the successful "outflanking maneuver and frontal assault" which carried Shepetovka although the Germans waged a bitter fight.

Diplomatic Activity

It was the first important Russian success in this area since Vatutin's forces drove deep into German lines in old Poland to take Rovno and Lutsk, announced just a week ago. Vatutin's army now holds an 80-mile wide corridor extending 100 miles inside old Poland from the Korosten-Shepetovka railway.

The Russian communique made no mention of operations on other fronts.

From Finland, object of new bombing pressure by Russia, came word that Social Democratic party leaders and a labor newspaper had suggested that Helsinki seek out Soviet peace terms. Diplomatic activity was reported in the Finnish capital.

NEAR-CAPACITY COAL MINING IS SEEN ON SUNDAY

Wilkes-Barre, Feb. 12 (AP)—Pennsylvania today looked forward to what coal operators, union leaders and miners predicted would be near-capacity production in the state's anthracite mines on Sunday.

It was believed in union circles that the blanket of snow that has covered the state will spur the miner's effort for greater production and be instrumental in a greater number reporting to the pits this Sunday than was on hand last week.

The miners are reporting to the pits on Sunday during the month of February at the request of the Solid Fuels Administration in an effort to alleviate the fuel shortage.

Roman Catholic churches throughout the Wilkes-Barre area reported they would cooperate with the miners again this week-end and hold 5 a. m. Masses.

Cities Lack Coal

It was reported in Scranton that "it looks like 100 per cent again." As winter made itself felt throughout the east reports began rolling in that coal dealers were being bombarded with hundreds of orders for coal that they can't fill.

The shortage is so bad in New York that Mayor F. H. LaGuardia said coal orders could be filled only by approval of the City Health department.

Philadelphia coal dealers were four weeks behind in deliveries and reported they had hundreds of orders they could do nothing about.

School Districts To Get Assistance

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—Providing a surplus will remain in the $2,000,000 fund appropriated by the 1943 legislature for financially distressed school districts, Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, estimated only $700,000 has been used so far in the current biennium.

Ninety-eight districts have applied for a portion of the fund, but Dr. Haas added 20 applications are still pending until investigation of need is completed. Allocations have ranged from $1,000 to $50,000 to school districts, many of them in the hard coal region.

Nazis In Pope's Summer Residence

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Feb. 12 (AP)—Allied headquarters today announced that the Germans had installed themselves in the Papal Palace grounds at Castel Gandolfo south of Rome and that the premises therefore were subject to Allied bombing.

The Allied headquarters announcement said Castel Gandolfo, the Pope's summer home, "now lies in the battle area and continues a heavy saturation of German soldiers. Whenever vital enemy targets appear they will of necessity be bombed."

TWO DESTROYER ESCORTS READY

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—The destroyer escorts Crosley and Cread are ready to go down the ways today, one here and the other at Wilmington, Del.

The Crosley, which will be launched at the Philadelphia Navy yard, is to be named in honor of the late Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley, and will be sponsored by his widow, Mrs. Walter S. Crosley, of Bailey's Crossroads, Va.

Rear Admiral Crosley was in command of the battleship Idaho from 1923 to 1925 and also served as service commandant of the Ninth Naval district.

He has two sons in the service, Commanders Floyd S. Crosley and Paul C. Crosley.

The Cread is to be named after Seaman Walter I. Cread, of Minneapolis, Minn., who was killed in action. It will be launched at the Pravo Shipbuilding Corp. yards in Wilmington.

Calls For Safety On Home Front

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—An appeal for increased safety on home front production lines to "save additional lives among combat forces" was made by William H. Chestnut, Secretary of Labor and Industry.

"Conservation of all resources—human and material—is vital to an effective continuation of our war effort," he emphasized in a statement.

"The public is being urged to conserve strategic materials but even more important is the conservation of human life. The security of a nation lies in the safety of its people."

"The continuation of war activities is in a considerable measure predicated upon our united efforts in accident prevention measures."

During the first two years of war, American industrial accidents disabled more than 60 times the military wounded and missing.

ONE MAN KILLED, AND 11 INJURED IN DERAILMENT

Ashtabula, Ohio, Feb. 12 (AP)—An engineer was killed and 11 persons, including eight passengers, suffered injuries when a locomotive derailed and derailed the New York Central's Southwestern Limited passenger train today three miles west of here.

The dead man was B. W. Morris, about 55, pilot engineer when the New York Central had furnished to guide a Pennsylvania railroad train over NYC lines.

He was injured when struck by a piece of debris from the crash, and died later in Ashtabula General hospital.

The train was the second section of the Southwestern, Ltd., running from St. Louis to New York and Boston. Derailed were the engine, a baggage car, three coaches, seven standard sleepers and one tourist sleeper. The PRR locomotive also was knocked from the tracks.

Cars Remain Upright

Southwestern, Ltd., trainmen injured were L. S. Cummings, engineer, and W. A. Rank, fireman, both of Buffalo, and B. F. Connell, sleeping car porter, of St. Louis. None was thought seriously hurt.

Names of eight passengers who the railroad said were shaken up and bruised were not immediately available.

A railroad official said all the passenger cars remained upright and that damage to rolling stock likely would not prove great. Some track was torn up. Four main lines of the railroad were blocked several hours but other trains were rerouted with but slight delays.

HITLER SEEKS TO HIDE NAZIS' FATE IN RUSSIA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

One of the several pressing reasons why Hitler is risking his shirt to win a sensational victory at the Anzio-Nettuno bridgehead below Rome—and he has created a very serious situation indeed for the Allies—is to distract the attention of his people and wavering allies from his own dire straits on the Russian front.

As the signs now read we cannot be far off from a general withdrawal of the whole vast Nazi force. This was some 1,200 miles long in its more prosperous days, but the Red Armies have driven it so full of serpentine miles—an unwieldy and highly vulnerable battle line. The wonder is—and this is a tribute to German generalship—that the Nazis haven't been stamped long before this.

The present three great Russian offensives against the line—north, center and south—are acting as mighty levers that are detaching the Hitlerites from strategic anchors without which the front cannot continue to hold. The northern two-thirds of it will have to pull back at least to positions running from the vicinity of Riga, Latvia, southward through Brest Litovsk, in pre-war Poland, to the Carpathians.

Meanwhile Marshal von Manstein's forces on the extreme southern wing, which have been clinging so stubbornly to the Dnieper bend death-trap, are in the astonishing position of having been swung around until they are facing north by northeast and project dangerously eastward from the rest of the line. This has been brought about by the Red drive from Kiev westward into Poland.

Thus Manstein's Dnieper bend troops have their backs towards the Bessarabian border, and whatever forces he is able to save from annihilation will have to retreat to the Dnieper river, which forms this border, unless there's a sharp change in the present position. That's the crisis which Hitler has been trying to avoid—being driven up against this Bessarabian gateway to the Balkans. He's terrified that such a retreat will precipitate an upheaval among his Balkan satellites—a fear fully justified by the present state of unrest and revolt.

Suicide Task

As I previously have pointed out in this column, it undoubtedly has been this fear which has impelled the Nazi chief to assign his army in the Dnieper bend to the suicide task of holding to the bitter end. Von Manstein is too good a soldier to have clung to such a position unless he was working under orders from the big boss.

There is one peculiar development which might work to Hitler's advantage and enable him to delay his general withdrawal a bit. This is the phenomenal arrival of spring already in parts of the Russian front—something which, according to the experts, hasn't happened before in generations.

As a result of the warm weather, the dread mud has made its appearance to hamper military operations. The Muscovites get the worst of this deal because they are the ones who are on the offensive, whereas the greatest desire of the Nazis is to be allowed to sit undisturbed. Only time will tell whether this peculiar weather means a long, wet spring which would impede the Russians, or whether it presages an equally early summer, which would enable the eager Red troops to get ahead with their job.

In any event, fate has written that the Hitlerites will have to pull back towards the fatherland to new positions in the not too distant future. The Nazi propagandists appear to be preparing the German people for this move, which is going to be a terrific shock to them.

Empty Shelves Face Tardy Proprietors

Hundreds of hotels, restaurants, diners and clubs in this area, whose owners have failed to file their R-1307 supplement form with their local War Price and Rationing boards will be faced with empty kitchen shelves after March 1, the Harrisburg district OPA office declared today following a survey of the 24 local boards in this district. Unless proprietors of these delinquent food establishments file this form immediately with their local boards, cautioned OPA, there is little likelihood that they will have on hand sufficient food to satisfy diners when they exhaust their present allotment which expires on February 29.

Trojan Coach Will Enter Service Soon

Lowell Schlichter, whose Chambersburg high Trojans are undefeated and appear headed for the Southern Pennsylvania basketball league title, was granted a leave of absence at a meeting of the Chambersburg school board Thursday evening.

Schlichter expects to be called about March 1 for duty with the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Deferments For Lumbermen Fought

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Proponents of legislation to defer workers in the lumber and logging industry from military induction faced strenuous opposition today from the Army, the Selective Service system and the War Manpower commission.

Representatives of the three agencies testified against the measure before a House Military subcommittee yesterday. The lumber industry had contended that their workers were essential to the war effort and should be deferred from the draft automatically.

Col. Francis W. Keesling of the Selective Service system said the agency doesn't want its already-depleted pool of draft age men lessened.

Robert F. Patterson, Undersecretary of War, told the subcommittee the Army already is 200,000 men short of its induction quota.

Juvenile Troubles Laid To Families

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Relaxation of family control is responsible for the "disturbing" 14.7 per cent increase in juvenile delinquency cases in Allegheny county in 1943, Juvenile Court Judge Gustav L. Schramm announced in his annual report.

There were 3,107 new delinquency cases last year, compared to 2,709 in 1942, he said, adding:

"It is evident many of our children are being unsettled by the violence of war. On the radio, in the newspapers and in the movies children are exposed daily to the atrocities and violence of war."

"The relaxation of normal control over children by families is an inevitable by-product of the kind of total war we are fighting."

Judge Schramm declared the increase in "ungovernables" included truants, runaways, sex offenders and incorrigibles. An increasing number of girls, especially in the 14 to 16 age group, are coming before the court, he said.

Tradition places the castle of "Old King Cole" of the nursery rhymes in Colchester, Essex, England.

HOPE FOR VETO OF ACT ENDING ALL SUBSIDIES

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Administration leaders in Congress expressed new hope today that an overwhelming vote to end subsidies will be nullified by a quick presidential veto.

The Senate followed the lead of the House in voting by a resounding 43 to 28 majority late yesterday to cut off subsidy food price controls, but administration supporters were confident a presidential veto would be forthcoming and that it would be sustained.

One of them, Senator Ellender (D-La.), predicted subsidy payments would go on without interruption.

"I have no doubt that the President will direct that the subsidy program be continued if his veto is sustained," Ellender said, "and I think it is going to be sustained."

He referred to the administration's projected plan to pay out about $1,500,000,000 in subsidy payments to farmers and food processors in 1944 to offset production cost increases that otherwise would be passed on to consumers.

Meanwhile the Senate version of the repealer, representing a sharp rebuke to the administration's price stabilization policy, was on its way back to the house, where Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.) predicted it would be accepted promptly. The House meets Monday.

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Confidence that the Russo-Polish dispute and other Russian territorial problems will be solved without harm to the United Nations movement persisted in official quarters here today despite reports that Moscow had rejected another Allied offer to help clear up the difficulties.

The latest move, London said, was a proposal from Prime Minister Churchill to Premier Stalin apparently offering British aid in helping bring the Russian and Polish governments together.

Stalin was reported to have turned down the proposals politely with a statement of his reluctance to deal with certain members of the exiled Polish government he said were anti-Russian.

The disclosure that Churchill had written Stalin suggested the possibility that President Roosevelt also might be using some persuasions in the interest of an eventual reconciliation of Russian and Polish interests.

Washington concern appears to be not so much with the particular kind of solution worked out for the Russo-Polish frontier question as in averting a destruction of the belief that the leading United Nations can work together.

No one was injured when a car driven by Charles E. Wolf, East Berlin R. 2, crashed into the rear of a truck driven by Keller J. Bucher, Littlestown, one and one-half miles south of Hampton on the Cross Keys road at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Total damage was $125. The accident occurred according to Private Anthony Martin of the local state police when Bucher pulled his truck to the side of the road and stopped in order to clear ice from his windshield. Wolf, who was driving behind the Bucher truck, was unable to stop. No charges were laid.

WILLKIE RAPS REGIME OF FDR FOR DISUNITY

In a Lincoln Day banquet address here last night he warned: "We cannot survive as a nation divided against itself. The penalty of disunity is as heavy today as it was in Lincoln's time. Indeed, it may be greater."

The 1940 Republican nominee, who told a Baker, Oregon, railroad station group informally Wednesday night that he expected to be his party's 1944 standard bearer climaxed his Pacific Northwest visit with four speeches here last night. He goes to California from here to be a guest of Gov. Earl Warren, who has been mentioned as a possibility in the national Republican race.

Dewey Talks Tonight

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey is scheduled to address about 1,400 Republicans from 20 states at a Lincoln Day dinner in the National Republican club tonight.

The club said Dewey had requested that his speech not be broadcast, and associates of the Governor said there was no political significance in this request.

Addresses of other speakers, including Governor Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, are to be broadcast over local station WQXR.

Homage To Lincoln

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12 (AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace and other notables joined with Illinois citizens today in paying homage at the tomb of Abraham Lincoln as part of the nation's observance of the 135th anniversary of the birth of the Civil War President.

President Roosevelt has sent a wreath to be placed upon the state-laid, snow-banked tomb and it was to be presented in his behalf by Wallace this afternoon.

Warren H. Atherton, National Commander of the American Legion, was to lead the legion's 10th annual pilgrimage to the tomb of the martyred president, while Governor Dwight H. Green was to head a group of state officials to the national shrine.

Receptions and special events were planned in Springfield, where Lincoln lived for many years before his election to the presidency.

Bricker In Capital

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Political supporters of John W. Bricker claimed today the three-term Ohio governor had notably advanced his chances for the 1944 Republican presidential nomination during a three-day visit to Washington.

Bricker, 50-year-old Chief Executive of the Buckeye State, advocated a constitutional amendment limiting the presidential term to eight years. Hitting at Democratic talk of a fourth nomination for President Roosevelt, he said he favored either a single six-year term or two four-year terms.

Bricker told a gathering of newsmen and guests at the National Press club yesterday that he favored some form of international setup to insure peace in the postwar world but that he did not believe in pledging the United States to any system which would endanger its freedom of action.

1,000 Miners Idle In Work Dispute

Shenandoah, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—One thousand miners at the Knickerbocker colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company stayed away from their jobs a second day Friday in a dispute over the discharge of a fellow worker.

A United Mine Workers' committee was appointed last night to attempt a settlement. The company had announced earlier that it would not negotiate until production was resumed.

UMW leaders said miners in other Philadelphia and Reading collieries might join the walkout unless agreement was reached quickly.

The dispute centered around Julius Barowsky, who the union said was discharged because he advised certain miners not to work at two jobs. The company said Barowsky was dismissed for interfering with management.

THE MIRACULOUS USES OF PLASMA PARTS ARE TOLD

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Red Cross blood plasma, which has been the foremost lifesaver of American wounded, has been split into a number of fractions each of which is as miraculous as plasma.

These fractions, and their production for the armed forces on a big scale, most of them military secrets until now, were described to the New York section of the American Chemical Society here last night by Dr. Edwin J. Cohn, of Harvard University.

One fraction, Albumin, does all the work of plasma and only one fifth volume is required.

Surgery Aid

A second, of the globulins which protect man from many diseases, is the best preventive and treatment for measles yet found and is in large-scale production for the armed forces.

A third, made of two of the blood's clotting elements, is a new plastic, which looks like a cross between nylon and rubber, and is in use in surgery where sheets of it have been substituted for lost layers of lining over the brain.

Two others are new substances that quickly stop bleeding in wounds.

A sixth is the isohemagglutinins which define the different types of blood, and is in use in military typing.

Housewives To Be Trained As Cops

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Some Pittsburgh women may soon have an opportunity to swap the housewife's rolling pin for the night stick of a traffic cop.

Safety Director George E. A. Fairly has announced a plan whereby women will replace about 125 or 150 policemen now on school duties and other traffic assignments and so relieve an acute shortage of police.

"Women have shown themselves capable in industry and other city service jobs, and New York, and Cleveland both are using women police officers successfully," Fairly said.

3 Bolivian Officials Resign In Shakeup

La Paz, Bolivia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Three Bolivian government officials have resigned in a shakeup of the Revolutionary regime and Air Force Chief Lt. Col. Alfredo Pacheco, who is regarded as pro-Allied, has been appointed Minister of the Interior. (Finance Minister Victor Paz Estenssoro, who master-minded the December coup which placed the present regime in power, was quoted in Buenos Aires as saying in a telephone conversation that it was hoped the changes would bring early recognition of the regime by the United States and the 18 other American nations which have refused to deal diplomatically with the new government.)

RUSSIANS CRASH THROUGH NAZIS' STRONGEST LINE

London, Feb. 12 (AP)—Crashing through possibly the strongest German fortifications on the eastern front, Red Army forces have captured the rail center of Shepetovka and tightened their noose around the Cherkasy death trap 200 miles to the east where remnants of 100,000 Nazi troops are being liquidated.

Calls For Safety On Home Front

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—An appeal for increased safety on home front production lines to "save additional lives among combat forces" was made by William H. Chesnut, Secretary of Labor and Industry.

"Conservation of all resources—human and material—is vital to an effective continuation of our war effort," he emphasized in a statement.

"The public is being urged to conserve strategic materials but even more important is the conservation of human life. The security of a nation lies in the safety of its people."

CHAMBERSBURG HALTS MAROONS BY 43-41 SCORE

History was made on the Gettysburg high school court Friday evening when the unbeaten Chambersburg high Trojans spurted in the final minutes of the game to defeat the Maroons 43-41 and thereby clinched the Southern Division honors of the South Penn league race.

By far the largest crowd of the season was on hand to witness the thrilling battle which saw the lead change hands time and again with neither team being able to build up a substantial lead.

As a result of the defeats, the Maroons will become ex-champions of the South Penn league which they ruled for three straight years.

The setback is the first in over four years a Maroon team has suffered on its home floor during which 41 straight victories were recorded. Hanover was the last team to beat the locals here and that was on January 12, 1940.

Gorman Plays Well

The entire personnel of both line-ups played hard, scrappy games throughout. It would be doing an injustice not to mention the sensational work of George Gorman who played by far his best game of the season and was a whirlwind performer all evening. George Fair turned in his usual fine game while March, Ogden and Fidler were not far behind.

Gettysburg got off to a fast start when Gorman looped a one-handed toss shortly after the opening whistle. Fair followed with a long one before Leisher landed a foul. Fair landed a side shot with Howard netting a close try. Ogden and Leisher

Albright Quintet Play Here Tonight

Beaten but once in 12 starts, Albright's "strong" basketball team will attempt to make it two-in-a-row over the Gettysburg college Bullets when the teams clash here this evening.

Although completely outclassed in their game with the Lions at Reading last Saturday night, the Bullets are confident of making a much better showing tonight and hope to pull an upset.

In the preliminary game at 7 o'clock two Squadron teams of the College Training Detachment clash.

matched fouls and then Leisher and Fidler converted free throws. A pair of goals by Leisher and a single toss by Dorsey sandwiched a goal by March to put the Trojans ahead 11-10 at the quarter.

Four successive fouls tossed by N. Koutris built up a nice lead for the visitors to open the second period. The Maroons came right back on a foul and goal by Gorman, a foul by Ogden and Fair's long throw to take a 16-15 lead with four minutes of play elapsed. Ogden was yanked in favor of McGlaughlin, due to three personal fouls. The score was deadlocked at 18-18 on Gorman's two conversions and Fair sent Gettysburg ahead with a long chuck but just before the half ended Leisher and Howard landed tosses to put Chambersburg out in front 23-20 at the half.

Maroons Take Lead

The third period was marked by fast play throughout and in the late minutes Gettysburg surged out in front 32-28 on a foul by Thrush, goals by Gorman and Fair and a foul by the latter.

The over-foul crowd was given thrill after thrill in the hectic last round. Koutris and Leisher landed fouls to start scoring before Thrush netted a free toss. J. Koutris scored on a close chuck. Goals by Leisher and Saunders put the Trojans in front 35-33 after three and one-half minutes. Howard sank a foul and March cut loose with a long goal. On a beautiful follow up toss Gorman spun a sensational toss through from underneath while in midair to give Gettysburg a 37-36 advantage. Saunders and Thrush matched short tosses. Leisher netted a one-handed toss and Howard got away for an open toss with but two minutes remaining. Leisher was fouled and converted to make the score 43-39 and with less than a minute to go March spun a long chuck through. The remaining seconds were furious as the clock ran out.

Fouls Abundant

Hard playing brought an unusually large number of fouls and as a result 41 free tosses were awarded. Three players, Ogden, J. Koutris and Dorsey, the latter pair being Trojans were ejected on fouls. Ogden missed several minutes in the third period and played but a few minutes in the last half. Thrush put up a game battle as Ogden's relief man but the latter's absence was keenly felt.

The Maroon jayvees had little trouble in upsetting the Junior class team 31-15 in the preliminary game. At half time the jayvees were out in front 18-7.

MAY INCREASE BOUNTIES PAID TO SPORTSMEN

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—Proposals to increase state bounties paid for killing of predatory animals and birds were placed before the annual session of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen clubs here today with approval of the federation's board of directors.

Also approved for submission to the general session were resolutions asking for a 50 cent increase in resident fishing licenses in Pennsylvania and repeal by the state Legislature of the special $1 permit now required to hunt antlerless deer.

Dr. C. A. Morimer, of Honesdale, federation secretary, also said the federation directors favor dropping of the section in the state game code which permits local counties to abrogate antlerless deer seasons fixed by the game commission.

"When a county is declared open by the commission, hunters want it to remain open," explained Dr. Morimer. He said the request for increased bounties resulted from reports of much small game and farm fowls being killed by such animals as red and gray foxes and weasels and by the great horned owl.

Proposed Raises

At present, a $4 bounty is paid for gray foxes and Mortimer said the resolution calls for the same bounty for red foxes. A bounty of $4 for the great horned owl will be asked, while that for weasels would be increased from 50 cents to $1 under the proposal.

Another resolution asking repeal of a special law protecting foxes in Chester and Delaware counties also received the directors approval while a request for a September trout season was rejected.

An address by Mark James, director of the state planning commission, on development of recreational sites and new fishing waters in Pennsylvania, and talks by Seth Gordon, state game commission director, and C. A. French, commissioner of fisheries, were on the morning program.

Louisiana Derby Will Be Run Today

New Orleans, Feb. 12 (AP)—If today's $15,000 Louisiana Derby produces a winner with enough grit and giddap to triumph later in the Churchill Downs classic, it will be the first time since Col. Matt Winn's Black Gold turned the trick back in the twenties.

And although Black Gold was a super gee gee, returning subsequently to New Orleans to finish a race on three good legs and a broken one, oldtimers here will bet their bit, Olympic Zenith, Weyanoke or Doggone will follow in the hoof-prints of the champion.

Chinese Major S. T. Wang made the first air raid in history on Japan in the bombing of Formosa six years ago.

Of the 196 players in service, 33 are former members of the Athletics and an equal number once were on the Tigers' roster, Earl Hilligan of the American league disclosed today. Chicago is third with 28, followed by Washington, 25; Cleveland 23; St. Louis, 20, and Boston and New York each 18.

Hilligan said at present there are 53 players in the league who have been classified 4-F, and that of players examined for service, 80 per cent have been inducted.

Club Owners Not Asking Deferments

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—Club owners in professional baseball have not and will not make any request for preferential draft treatment of their players for the duration, says Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The commissioner expressed his views on the subject last night in a statement following an exchange of published letters between Stephen E. Early, President Roosevelt's secretary, and J. C. T. Spink of St. Louis, publisher of the Sporting News.

Spink had written the President asking an expression on baseball's future during the war.

"Mr. Spink is not a member of the baseball organization and does not speak for anybody but himself," Landis said in his statement. "No body authorized to speak for professional baseball has requested preferential treatment of any kind for any player. Most emphatically no such request will be made while we are engaged in this war."

Fritzie Zivic Is Ordered To Navy

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic, former world welterweight champion, was ordered yesterday by his draft board to report for induction into the Navy in 30 days.

SAYS BASEBALL IS UNHURT BY SERVICE DRAFT

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Selective Service is making big inroads into the rosters of all National league baseball teams, but, in the words of President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates, it hasn't injured the national sport in any respect.

"If anything, it has helped it," he said today, in reviewing major league baseball in general since Pearl Harbor.

"We've all lost some good players, some teams more than others, but the sport, if anything, is more popular than ever, the quality still is high and, most important of all, competition is more keen because of the 'equalizing' effect the draft has had."

Optimistic Outlook

"This year we're looking forward to an outstanding year. I mean the league in general—not just the Pirates."

Benswanger explained that where each team was losing its share of players, the top teams were being hardest hit.

"Now take last year as an example. St. Louis won the pennant and Brooklyn was second. Philadelphia and New York were at the bottom. Everytime St. Louis loses a player to the draft isn't it logical to presume that the first line man they lose will be harder to replace than a first-line Philadelphia or New York player?"

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, here to address a banquet of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Banking, echoed Benswanger's statement, saying:

"You can't pick 'em today, and we won't know until well along in the season just what teams will be in there fighting for the pennant. St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, in that order, look best now. But we don't know how they'll look by July 4—or when training season opens, for that matter."

"I can't see where the quality of the game has dropped perceptibly, either," Benswanger said. "We have lost some first rate players. We have called back some veterans that have been playing Class AA baseball for a year or more."

"But if the draft is putting the clubs on a more even basis, leaving none of them top-heavy with stars, it actually is helping the game and not hindering it."

Then he added, echoing Rickey's opinion:

"Right now it looks like St. Louis again, with Chicago and Cincinnati in that order. But the proof comes on the field, not on paper."

As a result of last week's three-yard Millrose win over Hulse, which represented a 4:10.6 effort, Dodds is favored to break the Hunter record in any respect.

"If anything, it has helped it," he said today, in reviewing major league baseball in general since Pearl Harbor.

Rich Fur Harvest In State Foreseen

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Game Commission forecast today a rich fur harvest should be in the offing for trappers who are planning to catch beavers during the open season from Feb. 15 to Feb. 29 in 22 counties.

The market price for beaver pelts has averaged $28 each for the last two years, ranging from $12 for kits to as high as $45 for blanket pelts, the commission said.

Regulations for beaver trapping include:

Limit of three beavers per person during season; traps cannot be set before 8 a. m. the opening day; one person may set or operate only 10 traps for beavers at any time; trap tags must be kept above the ice or waterline; and all pelts must be tagged by a game protector within 10 days after the close of the season.

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—Proposals to increase state bounties paid for killing of predatory animals and birds were placed before the annual session of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's clubs here today with approval of the federation's board of directors.

Also approved for submission to the general session were resolutions asking for a 50 cent increase in resident fishing licenses in Pennsylvania and repeal by the state Legislature of the special $1 permit now required to hunt antlerless deer.

Dr. C. A. Mortimer, of Honesdale, federation secretary, also said the federation directors favor dropping of the section in the state game code which permits local counties to abrogate antlerless deer seasons fixed by the game commission.

"When a county is declared open by the commission, hunters want it to remain open," explained Dr. Mortimer. He said the request for increased bounties resulted from reports of much small game and farm fowls being killed by such animals as red and gray foxes and weasels and by the great horned owl.

Proposed Raises

At present, a $4 bounty is paid for gray foxes and Mortimer said the resolution calls for the same bounty for red foxes. A bounty of $4 for the great horned owl will be asked, while that for weasels would be increased from 50 cents to $1 under the proposal.

Another resolution asking repeal of a special law protecting foxes in Chester and Delaware counties also received the directors approval while a request for a September trout season was rejected.

An address by Mark James, director of the state planning commission, on development of recreational sites and new fishing waters in Pennsylvania, and talks by Seth Ogden, state game commission director, and C. A. French, commissioner of fisheries, were on the morning program.

Louisiana Derby Will Be Run Today

New Orleans, Feb. 12 (AP)—If today's $15,000 Louisiana Derby produces a winner with enough grit and giddap to triumph later in the Churchill Downs classic, it will be the first time since Col. Matt Winn's Black Gold turned the trick back in the twenties.

And although Black Gold was a super gee gee, returning subsequently to New Orleans to finish a race on three good legs and a broken one, oldtimers here will bet their French balconies that either Gay Bit, Olympic Zenith, Weyanoke or Doggone will follow in the hoof-prints of the champion.

Chinese Major S. T. Wang made the first air raid in history on Japan in the bombing of Formosa six years ago.

A's, Detroit Send Most Men To Forces

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—Philadelphia and Detroit share the leadership in the American league's contribution of baseball players to the armed forces.

Of the 196 players in service, 33 are former members of the Athletics and an equal number once were on the Tigers' roster. Earl Hilligan of the American league disclosed today, Chicago is third with 26, followed by Washington, 25; Cleveland 23; St. Louis, 20, and Boston and New York each 18.

Hilligan said at present there are 53 players in the league who have been classified 4-F, and that of players examined for service, 80 per cent have been inducted.

Club Owners Not Asking Deferments

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—Club owners in professional baseball have not and will not make any request for preferential draft treatment of their players for the duration, says Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The commissioner expressed his views on the subject last night in a statement following an exchange of published letters between Stephen Early, President Roosevelt's secretary, and J. G. T. Spink of St. Louis, publisher of the Sporting News. Spink had written the President asking an expression on baseball's future during the war.

"Mr. Spink is not a member of the baseball organization and does not speak for anybody but himself," Landis said in his statement. "No body authorized to speak for professional baseball has requested preferential treatment of any kind for any player. Most emphatically no such request will be made while we are engaged in this war."

Fritzie Zivic Is Ordered To Navy

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic, former world welterweight champion, was ordered yesterday by his draft board to report for induction into the Navy in 30 days.

The pug-nosed boxer got notice less than a month after his final examination January 17 when he received an extension of time because of a fractured left hand suffered in a bout with Joltin' Jake LaMotta at Detroit.

The hand was X-rayed this week and declared sound enough for his induction next month.

Sports Star Now In Boxing Tourney

State College, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—Tubby Crawford, Marine trainee who already has competed in track and field, soccer, football and ice hockey, today added boxing to his list of athletic accomplishments at Penn State.

Nittany Coach Leo Houck nominated Crawford of Shorewood, Wis., for the 165-pound spot in tonight's dual meet with Virginia. He will be matched against Merle Debuskey, Virginia grid star.

Storm Results In Cage Cancellations

Friday's snow storm and resultant hazardous traveling conditions caused cancellation of several basketball games listed for county high schools.

The double-header scheduled to be played at Gettysburg between Boiling Springs and the Apple Pickers was called off and the games between Harrisburg Catholic and Delone at McSherrytown were also cancelled.

"You'll find my wife's body in the bedroom of our home."

Jenkins said the husband, whom the chief described as a former patient for a nervous disorder, stated that he killed his wife because she "went out with other men."

SAYS BASEBALL IS UNHURT BY SERVICE DRAFT

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Selective Service is making big inroads into the rosters of all National league baseball teams, but, in the words of President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh Pirates, it hasn't injured the national sport in any respect.

"If anything, it has helped it," he said today, in reviewing major league baseball in general since Pearl Harbor.

"We've all lost some good players, some teams more than others, but the sport, if anything, is more popular than ever, the quality still is high and, most important of all, competition is more keen because of the 'equalizing' effect the draft has had."

Optimistic Outlook

"This year we're looking forward to an outstanding year. I mean the league in general—not just the Pirates."

Benswanger explained that where each team was losing its share of players, the top teams were being hardest hit.

"Now take last year as an example. St. Louis won the pennant and Brooklyn was second. Philadelphia and New York were at the bottom. Everytime St. Louis loses a player to the draft isn't it logical to presume that the first line man they lose will be harder to replace than a first-line Philadelphia or New York player?"

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, here to address a banquet of the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Banking, echoed Benswanger's statement, saying:

Run In Doubt

"You can't pick 'em today, and we won't know until well along in the season just what teams will be in there fighting for the pennant. St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, in that order, look best now. But we don't know how they'll look by July 4—or when training season opens, for that matter."

"I can't see where the quality of the game has dropped perceptibly, either," Benswanger said. "We have lost some first rate players. We have called back some veterans that have been playing Class AA baseball for a year or more."

"But if the draft is putting the clubs on a more even basis, leaving none of them top-heavy with stars, it actually is helping the game and not hindering it."

Then he added, echoing Rickey's opinion: "Right now it looks like St. Louis again, with Chicago and Cincinnati in that order. But the proof comes on the field, not on paper."

Graham In Final Cage Tilt Tonight

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—Northwestern Basketball Captain Graham trends a collegiate court for the last time in tonight's game with Camp Grant.

Graham, who in three years won eight varsity letters and was named to the Associated Press All-America football team last fall, begins naval aviation pilot officer training next Thursday at Colgate university.

Gil Dodds Races Tonight At Boston

Boston, Feb. 12 (AP)—A hometown jinx that has prevented Gil Dodds, the Boston divinity student, from gaining an indoor triumph on the Boston Garden's boards also will be racing against him tonight when he matches strides with Bill Hulse, holder of the American outdoor record, and three others in the Boston A.A.'s Hunter mile classic.

As a result of last week's three-yard Millrose win over Hulse, which represented a 4:10.6 effort, Dodds is favored to break the Hunter record of 4:10 set by Glenn Cunningham back in 1938. But Dodds was the popular pre-race choice in the last two Hunter events, only to be out-distanced at early stages.

Rich Fur Harvest In State Foreseen

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Game Commission forecast today a rich fur harvest should be in the offing for trappers who are planning to catch beavers during the open season from Feb. 15 to Feb. 29 in 22 counties.

The market price for beaver pelts has averaged $28 each for the last two years, ranging from $12 for kits to as high as $45 for blanket pelts, the commission said.

Regulations for beaver trapping include:

Limit of three beavers per person during season; traps cannot be set before 8 a. m. the opening day; one person may set or operate only 10 traps for beavers at any time; trap tags must be kept above the ice or waterline; and all pelts must be tagged by a game protector within 10 days after the close of the season.

Ocean temperatures range from 28 degrees Fahrenheit in polar regions to 85 degrees in the tropics.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

LINCOLN

God sent him to a cabin first to learn
That toll will ever be man's chief concern;
To live with toilers and to share the fears,
The hopes and all the sorrows of the years.
God gave him humble parents, as he gave
His only Son, who came men's souls to save;
Tried him with hazards from his earliest youth;
Filled him with furious longing for the truth;
Made learning difficult. To prove desire,
Left him to read by candle light and fire;
Forced him to walk long miles a book to gain;
Tested his will with weariness and pain.
Tall and ungainly, with no gift of grace,
God set the light of glory in his face;
Gave him that splendor which the spirit wears
And shines through heartaches and outlives its cares.
And when at last went Lincoln to his Lord,
The love of humble folk was his reward.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

BOOKS THAT SOOTHE

In the multitude of books that keep coming from the printing press, that so emphasize the tragedy of these times, it is well to turn to many that soothe the soul, and that engender hope and faith, and which substantiate human aspiration.

Recently I have turned to two books, one by George Gissing, entitled "By the Ionian Sea." Unfortunately it was not published on this side of the world, I believe, my copy being one published in England some twenty or more years ago. But it describes the beautiful towns and quaint country in southern Italy where our boys now fight. It was a favorite retreat with Gissing, and he loved all its historical background and all its simple beauty.

In his essay on Reggio, Gissing says: "An interesting feature of the streets is the frequency of carved inscriptions, commemorating citizens who died in their struggle for liberty." It was near this place that Paul, on his way to Rome, landed from his ship. The entire book is written by one who loved nature, antiquity, and "the strangeness of old things made new."

Another small volume is the famous Meditations of Marcus Aurelius, the "good Emperor." He was born in Rome in 121 A.D. It was over a thousand years, however, before the writings of this man were finally discovered, translated, and given to the world! The first edited copy was made in 1558, from a single manuscript, which subsequently disappeared. But in scores of translations and editions it has enriched human thought over the centuries.

These Meditations were apparently never meant to reach the outside world by the author. They were merely thoughts addressed "To Myself," and were the expressions of a great and good man who wished to grow in spiritual strength. As one writer has said: "The book has no place in the Curriculum of schools; for its value lies in content, not form; and it makes its appeal not to the hopes and enthusiasm of youth, so much as to the graver moods which disciples of patience and experience bring."

It is well always to be informed on what is going on in the world, but at no time has the world needed to turn to books that soothe, as now. The most soothing book of all, however, is the New Testament.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

Another popular watering place is the radiator cap.

Among the things that are sorely tried by reason of wartime's plague of short runs with the car are the breaker points which become pitted because of the coil's excessive output when cold. Generators and coils hardly have time to get warmed up, the result being that the output of high tension current is more than the distributor condenser is capable of handling. Points, therefore, suffer. This is reflected not merely in lowered gasoline mileage but in increased starting difficulty. The latter, in turn, increases crankcase dilution and cold engine wear. These days when we speak of cold engine operation we mean most of the time the car is in use.

Check That Thermostat
I am beginning to get requests for details on the proper procedure to follow when putting a stored car back into service. Some of these jobs have been up on jacks for two years. There are a lot of angles to be considered, but one that we have time for here is the matter of the motor thermostat. Since it is quite likely to be stuck the safest plan is to remove it and test it before starting the engine. Should it be stuck in a closed position the engine would overheat and there would be a nice bit of extra trouble to face at a time when many things may go wrong.

If the thermostat isn't working normally it can be left out of the cooling system until a new one is located. But meanwhile gas mileage will be lower than normal and the engine will be slower warming up.

Slated for adoption on the new cars to come along with the peace are hydraulic controls. These will be used for easing the job of steering the car. They will operate the collapsible top and regulate the raising and lowering of windows. For such hydraulic controls it will be necessary to use a special type of rotor pump. This is already giving account of itself on military vehicles. It can be used as a fuel pump, and as such eliminates the nuisance of diaphragm replacement and risk of vapor lock. Pump works like two gears meshing, one within the other. Oddity is that there are seven teeth on the outer rotor gear as against six on the inner one. High oil pressure is created as a result of this difference.

All In The "Ping"
Motorists who are hollering because there are wartime ceilings on octane ratings for both regular and premium gasolines may be surprised at tests conducted by one of the western automobile clubs that have shown conclusively that you can expect as good gas mileage on the open road as you did before wartime gas came in, and only slightly less mileage in town driving. That is, provided you can hold the line on "pinging" and do not set the ignition timing back. Retarded timing is the real reason so many motorists at present are complaining of excessively low gas mileage. To hold the "ping" to a minimum it is necessary to ban quick getaway, to use second on many hills formerly taken in high, and to remove carbon every 2000 miles where engines are of higher than normal compression.

Inability to get started because of failure of the choke valve to close fully is a common enough experience in motoring, but not many drivers realize that starting can be delayed by the choke valve sticking in a partially closed position. There is, of course, initial difficulty because there isn't full choke, but when the engine starts it soon begins to labor because it is then overchoked. It stalls and is difficult to restart. If it finally gets going it will have such a rich mixture that spark plug points will foul readily. That simply means further trouble starting.

What Made Them Wear?
A group of us recently viewed a number of badly worn tires and were asked for a diagnosis of the reasons for each special kind of wear. It was not an easy job because in most cases tires were wearing from two or more conditions. In almost every case there was some evidence of wheel and tire unbalance. But one tire seemed to be in a class by itself. There was wear on just one part of its tread. Two of the group immediately thought of an out-of-round brake drum. The tire expert among us, however, finally had to furnish the diagnosis. This tire had been taken from a front wheel fitted with a bad bearing.

Because the icy season invariably comes on suddenly most drivers are caught without sufficient practice. They are, therefore apt to forget that the clutch plays an important role in skillful handling of the car on a slippery surface. A clutch that is eased in gradually will do much to check rear wheel spinning for the start, and it is the clutch which offers certain options when slowing down minus skidding. Theoretically a car should stop better on ice if the brakes are gently applied, with the clutch disengaged, so that there is no extra motor braking through the rear wheels exclusively. Few cars, however, have such equalized braking. If there is an open space where tests can be made safely it is well to check the braking characteristics of your car. Tire treads will, of course, be quite a factor. One point to make sure about is that the engine's compression isn't so high as to give too much motor braking with the clutch engage during the slowing down.

Bouncing Means Trouble
One of the easiest tests I know of is checking a shock absorber. All you need do is rock one corner of the car at a time and note the results. If the body can be pushed down or pulled up a little, and then settles right back to its level position, the shock at that corner is working; but if the car continues to bounce at that end the shock isn't working. It will probably need to be taken off and given more fluid.

Whether to shift to neutral when waiting in traffic or to stay in gear with the clutch pedal pressed to the floor is no problem for those who appreciate that the clutch release bearing operates only when the pedal is down. Since this bearing is self-lubricated on most late-model cars, and is expensive to replace, common sense suggests going into neutral rather than holding the pedal down and keeping this bearing in action. There's a safety angle, too. Should your foot slip off the clutch pedal, when still in gear, you may find the car lurching forward into a pedestrian or into the car ahead.

What's On Your Mind?
Q. Just to settle an argument, will you let me know if it is possible to freeze a fully charged battery?
S. N. M.

A. Let the battery stand around in a temperature of 85 degrees below zero and it will freeze regardless of how well charged.

Q. The brakes on my car seem to fade badly when going downhill, even though I try not to use them.

This is a used job which I recently bought. It was supposed to have been reconditioned. F. C. G.

A. Probably it was properly gone over, including turning down warped brake drums. The fade is due to the drums now being a little too far on the thin side. There's not much you can do about strengthening the drums, so to guard against cracking one of them better drop into a lower gear on those downgrades.

Q. I have noticed that sometimes when the engine of my car is hot the starter doesn't spin it over as fast as when the car has been standing out in the cold. Ever hear of anything like this? C. McV.

DEMS' CONFAB TO BE 4 DAYS; HINT 4TH TERM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — A prospective four-day limitation on the life of the Democratic national convention was interpreted today by Republicans and some Democrats as a significant indication that leaders expect President Roosevelt to be nominated for a fourth term.

Because most conventions run longer, an announcement by Chairman Robert E. Hannegan that the Democrats would meet in Chicago on Wednesday, July 19, and probably would wind up that week, was seized upon by the Republicans as discounting any time-consuming contest for the presidential nomination.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) said he thought the Hannegan announcement made it appear that the President was "giving his party due notice of his intentions now." And, asked Senator Nye (R-ND):

"Is there any reason why they shouldn't finish it in one day?"

But Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) told reporters he could not read any special significance into a short meeting.

"The war's on and we want to do a good job quickly," he said. Senator Hatch (D-NM), who has expressed the view that the President should be renominated if the war is still on, said he thought four days would be "long enough" under those conditions.

Col. McCormick Not A Candidate

Chicago, Feb. 12 (AP)—Although petitions have been filed to put his name on the Illinois primary ballot as candidate for Republican presidential nomination, Col. Robert F. McCormick said Friday he will not enter the contest.

In a letter to Capt. William J. Grace, secretary of the Republican Nationalist Revival committee, the Chicago Tribune editor and publisher said he decided against allowing his name on the April 11 ballot "while not participating actively in the canvass."

"It would be unfair to enter a contest unless I intended to enter it with all my strength," he wrote Grace. "This in turn, would require my resigning the editorship of the Tribune, where I know I can be of service to my country, to enter the speculative field of a candidate."

TIGHT SQUEEZE

Philadelphia (AP)—Jacob Birnbaum's automobile was crushed accordion-fashion between a trolley and a pole and Patrolman Magee ran up expecting to find the motorist dead.

GREETINGS

Tacoma, Wash. (AP)—Edward Wittmeier, garage mechanic, bought a new mail box.

DEMS' CONFAB TO BE 4 DAYS; HINT 4TH TERM

By JACK BELL

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP) — A prospective four-day limitation on the life of the Democratic national convention was interpreted today by Republicans and some Democrats as a significant indication that leaders expect President Roosevelt to be nominated for a fourth term.

Because most conventions run longer, an announcement by Chairman Robert E. Hannegan that the Democrats would meet in Chicago on Wednesday, July 19, and probably would wind up that week, was seized upon by the Republicans as discounting any time-consuming contest for the presidential nomination.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) said he thought the Hannegan announcement made it appear that the President was "giving his party due notice of his intentions now." And, asked Senator Nye (R-ND):

"Is there any reason why they shouldn't finish it in one day?"

But Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told reporters he could not read any special significance into a short meeting.

"The war's on and we want to do a good job quickly," he said. Senator Hatch (D-NM), who has expressed the view that the President should be renominated if the war is still on, said he thought four days would be "long enough" under those conditions.

SAYS NATION FACES CRISIS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP)—Gov. Edward Martin said people who believe that problems settled by generations in the past remain settled are "foolish." Responsibilities, like preserving and protecting liberty are always at hand, he declared.

Boosting the Fourth War Loan campaign in a radio address last night, Gov. Martin recalled:

"In the short period of time since the United States was rent by civil war we have grown to such a great and powerful nation that many among us think that America can never be seriously threatened."

He said those same people believe that the American crisis of 81 years ago took care of all our problems for all time, describing such thought as "foolly," adding:

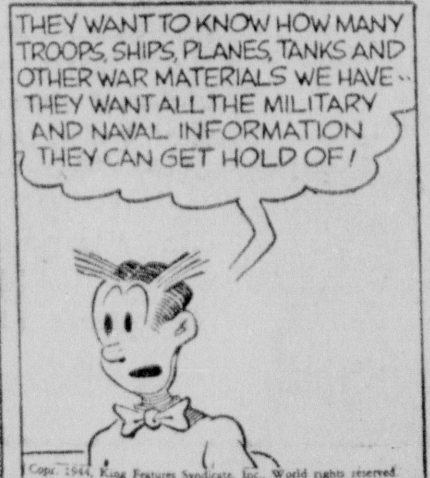

"Tonight America faces one of the most crucial moments in its history. Tonight we stand on the threshold of invasion. That invasion will decide the outcome of the great war in which we are now engaged."

"There isn't a home listening to-night which can sidestep the seriousness of the task which lies ahead. Because boys from out of our homes—boys from our farms, our towns and cities will be taking part in that fight."

RELIEF PAYMENTS
Direct relief payments to needy Adams countians remained the same during the week ending Friday as for the previous week. The amount given by the state treasury to the countians, $317.90 is $4.30 more than for the comparable week last year. Sixty-two checks were issued to countians.

Inter-Faculty Club

Holds Ladies Night

Dr. George Raiguel, Philadelphia lecturer, spoke on "The Far Eastern Situation" at the annual Inter-Faculty club ladies' night dinner at the Reformed church, Thursday.

Dr. Harry Baughman, president of the organization made up of members of the faculty of the local college and seminary, presided at the dinner. Dean W. E. Tilberg introduced the speaker. Dr. Francis Mason presented a toast to the ladies to which Mrs. A. R. Wentz responded. Dr. W. C. Waltemyer also spoke.

SNOW BLOCKS ROAD TRAFFIC AND RAILROADS

(By The Associated Press)

Snow blanketed Pennsylvania from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia today, ranging in depth from two to five inches, following the worst storm to hit the state this season.

The storm, which swept in from the Midwest yesterday, blanketed roads with an icy crust and slowed motor traffic to a walk. Railroads reported trains running as much as two hours behind schedule yesterday and conditions were described as slightly improved today.

In Philadelphia the streets were coated with ice after the snow slowly turned to sleet. Auto accidents were numerous and the city traffic system was virtually paralyzed. In the city's suburbs, which were hardly hit by the storm, five inches of snow was reported.

The acute fuel shortage took a new lease on life as temperatures dropped throughout the city. Most coal dealers, already four weeks behind in deliveries, were bombarded with frantic calls that could not be filled.

Low Temperatures

The weatherman added a gloomy touch to the fuel situation by predicting that temperatures will drop as low as 15 above zero today. He added that there might even be more snow.

In the Pittsburgh area snow was still falling intermittently. At Kane, the state's Number One cold spot,
the temperature was well below freezing and snow was piling up on a five inch base. Altoona reported three inches of snow. Roads throughout the western part of the state were coated with ice.

Scranton reported three inches of snow with clearing weather at midnight. At Hazleton two inches covered the ground and flakes were still falling slowly.

Two and a half inches of snow fell at Harrisburg and at midnight some flakes were still falling but the weatherman said little additional snow was expected there. Temperatures dipped as low as 19 above zero in the state's capital. Traffic was reported to be moving normally.

Governor Sees Crisis At Home

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP) — Gov.
Edward Martin visualizes 1944 as
"the year of decision and of a great homefront crisis" in which battles on land and sea will be "the most terrible ever watched by the world."
In an address before the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers, Pittsburgh personnel association and Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, he summed up America's wartime progress as:

1940—The year of blueprinting for war.

1941—The year of new construction for war.

1942—The year of material shortages and the training of men.

1943—The year of manpower shortages and of terrible fighting on many fronts.

"I see 1944 as the year of decision and of a great home front crisis," he added.

Lincoln May Have Been Pennsylvanian

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Did Abraham Lincoln spring from Pennsylvania stock?

The great emancipator himself records "a vague tradition" that he did.

A Lincoln letter in the collection of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, noted dealer in rare books and manuscripts, reads in part:

"We have a vague tradition, that my great-grandfather went from Pennsylvania to Virginia, and that he was a Quaker—further back than this I have never heard anything."
The letter was written in 1848 to Solomon Lincoln, a Massachusetts genealogist who sought a link between his family and the future president's.

Letter to the Editor

Atlanta, Georgia.
Feb. 2, 1944.

Dear Sir:
Just a brief story to let you know and the folks back home what a great part the American Red Cross is doing to keep up the morale of the boys in the Lawson General hospital here in Atlanta, Georgia. Every Tuesday and Fridays they have a movie for the boys and other days they have some band. Sometimes they have a movie star from Hollywood.

I have been in the Hospital eight months myself. A lot of the boys are returning from the battle fronts with arms and legs missing. So I think the Red Cross should get more credit than what they are getting.
If they are as good in all hospitals and camps throughout the states and abroad.

Yours truly,
Burnell Myers.

Daniel Webster, as secretary of state, was the first to warn other nations to stay out of the Hawali Islands.

FLIGHT from LOVE

by JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY AP Features

Chapter 19
Julie didn't hear Kay's light step as she came into the bedroom.
Standing before the full length mirror Julie was saying the name over slowly, "Mercedes La Cava."

"Trying on your new name for size?" Kay laughed.

Julie felt the color in her cheeks.
"It seems so strange after you've had one name all your life to suddenly be told that from now on it will be something different."

"Those studio publicity men certainly picked a fancy one while they were about it," Kay said, and then quickly added, "but I do like the sound of it. Makes you think of a beautiful woman of mystery."

"I guess by now Marek thinks I am somewhat of a mystery," Julie laughed. "Maybe that had something to do with it."

The blast of Jack's horn sent the girls dashing into their overalls.

"There's 'never-late Parker,'" Kay said. "Honestly, that guy plans it so his car rolls to a stop at our curb-stone at exactly the same second every night."

"We're lucky he promised to be our steady ride," Julie retorted.
"Think of the trouble some of the girls have with late rides!"

"Oh I'm not complaining," Kay grinned.

Jack swung out of the car and opened the door for the girls as they came down the walk. Kay with a sparkle of mischief in her eyes stopped directly in front of him.

"I want you to meet my new friend," she said with formal stiffness. "Miss Mercedes La Cava, Mr.
Jack Parker."

Jack looked puzzled and ran his fingers through his thick auburn hair.

"What's the gag?" he asked.
Kay couldn't keep from laughing.
"No gag at all—that's Julie's new movie name!"

"Jeepers," Jack cried. "Sounds more like a racy foreign automobile to me."

The three climbed into the coupe and headed for the plant.

Under the bluish glare of the lights Julie worked with the smooth efficiency of a precision machine.
The hours until the rest period seemed to pass like minutes. She felt the increasing tempo of excitement as she thought of the brilliant career that lay ahead of her. She had met a crisis in her life and taken it in her stride.

The bell for the rest period rang sharply. Julie joined the others in the surge toward the cafeteria.
Inching along in the slowly moving line past steam tables and huge trays of food Julie picked out a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee.

The glass topped table accommodated eight and there were already seven workers eating hungrily when Julie edged her tray onto the crowded table and sat down. The girl next to her was leafing through a magazine. Suddenly she looked up at Julie and smiled. Julie's eyes followed her finger to the page of photographs.

"My gosh, sister, you look enough like this new La Cava woman to be her twin," the girl said.

Julie smiled. "There is a slight resemblance, but her face is much rounder than mine."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," the girl admitted. "But for a second there it was quite a jolt." She kept looking from the pictures to Julie.
Suddenly she said in a loud voice that brought the attention of everyone at the table.

"Maybe I'm nuts, that's what I want to find out, but I'm going to pass the magazine around the table. See how many of you guys think these pictures of the new movie star Mercedes La Cava look like this gal next to me."

Each worker looked with interest at the pictures and then across at Julie. Julie could feel her face redden.

"I don't see much resemblance," one middle-aged woman said.

"They can do anything with make-up," said another. "I know.
I used to work in the make-up department."

"I'd say she looked enough like her to apply for a job as stand-in,"
one red headed youth suggested.

The magazine had gone the rounds. Its owner was still staring at her face when Julie left the table.
Julie got up at two that afternoon and slipped into her flannel robe and slippers quietly so as not to waken Jack still sleeping soundly in the other twin bed. She had heard the mailman when he slid a letter under their door.

Her mother's hand writing was on the envelope. She was conscious of the familiar pang of disappointment that it wasn't from Dave. As she was taking the letter from the envelope a yellow piece of paper fluttered to the floor. She picked it up and gasped. It was a check for a thousand dollars!

She read her mother's letter through once hurriedly and then again more slowly.

"Mr. Cooper sold the house last week to the Elk's Club," it said.
"The price I had to take for it was ridiculous but when you're in need, people always manage to take advantage of you. Especially a lone woman. This is part of the down payment. There'll be more later."

Julie felt dazed as she walked back to the bedroom clutching the check in her hand. She took a shower and dressed. She was just taking her new white purse from the drawer when Kay raised up on one elbow and looked at her sleepily.

"Where you going so dressed up?"
she said between a yawn.

"I'm walking over to the studio.
Want to talk to Marek." She took the check from the dresser and went over and sat on the side of Kay's bed. She handed it to her without saying a word.

"A thousand dollars!" Kay breathed in stunned amazement. "Is there really that much money left in the world?"

"Mother sold the house," Julie said simply.

Kay stared at the yellow paper.

Riding With Russel

motor than when the pistons are cold and contracted, provided the engine has light oil which doesn't stiffen up with cold.

Q. A friend told me that if I would always use a new gasket when installing a new spark plug I would be more sure of the plug points holding their gap. What does he mean? W. M. B.

A. If plugs are screwed in too tightly there is risk of twisting the shell and thus disturbing the gap.
With a new gasket there is less risk of this since the gasket takes up strain if the wrench is turned a little too vigorously.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

"I've often wondered what I'd do if I ever got my mitts on that much money all at one time," she muttered.

Julie felt strength and hope surge through her as she walked briskly under the arch of shimmering pepper trees. There was a spicy sweetness in the air and the breeze came down the hills cool and fresh.

The uniformed guard at the studio desk smiled as he saw her swinging through the door in her new white silk sport dress and perky white hat.

Inter-Faculty Club Holds Ladies Night

Dr. George Raiguel, Philadelphia lecturer, spoke on "The Far Eastern Situation" at the annual Inter-Faculty club ladies' night dinner at the Reformed church, Thursday.

Dr. Harry Baughman, president of the organization made up of members of the faculty of the local college and seminary, presided at the dinner. Dean W. E. Tilber introduced the speaker. Dr. Francis Mason presented a toast to the ladies to which Mrs. A. R. Wentz responded. Dr. W. C. Waltemyer also spoke.

SNOW BLOCKS ROAD TRAFFIC AND RAILROADS

(By The Associated Press)

Snow blanketed Pennsylvania from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia today, ranging in depth from two to five inches, following the worst storm to hit the state this season.

The storm, which swept in from the Midwest yesterday, blanketed roads with an icy crust and slowed motor traffic to a walk. Railroads reported trains running as much as two hours behind schedule yesterday and conditions were described as slightly improved today.

In Philadelphia the streets were coated with ice after the snow slowly turned to sleet. Auto accidents were numerous and the city traffic system was virtually paralyzed. In the city's suburbs, which were harder hit by the storm, five inches of snow was reported.

The acute fuel shortage took a new lease on life as temperatures dropped throughout the city. Most coal dealers, already four weeks behind in deliveries, were bombarded with frantic calls that could not be filled.

Low Temperatures

The weatherman added a gloomy touch to the fuel situation by predicting that temperatures will drop as low as 15 above zero today. He added that there might even be more snow.

In the Pittsburgh area snow was still falling intermittently. At Kane, the state's Number One cold spot, the temperature was well below freezing and snow was piling up on a five inch base. Altoona reported three inches of snow. Roads throughout the western part of the state were coated with ice.

Scranton reported three inches of snow with clearing weather at midnight. At Hazleton two inches covered the ground and flakes were still falling slowly.

Two and a half inches of snow fell at Harrisburg and at midnight some flakes were still falling but the weatherman said little additional snow was expected there. Temperatures dipped as low as 19 above zero in the state's capital. Traffic was reported to be moving normally.

Governor Sees Crisis At Home

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12 (AP) — Gov. Edward Martin visualizes 1944 as "the year of decision and of a great homefront crisis" in which battles on land and sea will be "the most terrible ever watched by the world."

In an address before the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers, Pittsburgh personnel association and Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, he summed up America's wartime progress as:

1940—The year of blueprinting for war.

1941—The year of new construction for war.

1942—The year of material shortages and the training of men.

1943—The year of manpower shortages and of terrible fighting on many fronts.

"I see 1944 as the year of decision and of a great home front crisis," he added.

Lincoln May Have Been Pennsylvanian

Philadelphia, Feb. 12 (AP)—Did Abraham Lincoln spring from Pennsylvania stock?

The great emancipator himself records "a vague tradition" that he did.

A Lincoln letter in the collection of Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, noted dealer in rare books and manuscripts, reads in part:

"We have a vague tradition, that my great-grandfather went from Pennsylvania to Virginia, and that he was a Quaker—further back than this I have never heard anything."

The letter was written in 1848 to Solomon Lincoln, a Massachusetts genealogist who sought a link between his family and the future president's.

Letter to the Editor

Atlanta, Georgia, Feb. 2, 1944.

Dear Sir: Just a brief story to let you know and the folks back home what a great part the American Red Cross is doing to keep up the morale of the boys in the Lawson General hospital here in Atlanta, Georgia. Every Tuesday and Fridays they have a movie for the boys and other days they have some band. Sometimes they have a movie star from Hollywood.

I have been in the Hospital eight months myself. A lot of the boys are returning from the battle fronts with arms and legs missing. So I think the Red Cross should get more credit than what they are getting. If they are as good in all hospitals and camps throughout the states and abroad.

Yours truly, Burnell Myers.

Daniel Webster, as secretary of state, was the first to warn other nations to stay out of the Hawaiian islands.

FLIGHT from LOVE

Chapter 19

Julie didn't hear Kay's light step as she came into the bedroom. Standing before the full length mirror Julie was saying the name over slowly, "Mercedes La Cava."

"Trying on your new name for size?" Kay laughed.

Julie felt the color in her cheeks. "It seems so strange after you've had one name all your life to suddenly be told that from now on it will be something different."

"Those studio publicity men certainly picked a fancy one while they were about it," Kay said, and then quickly added, "but I do like the sound of it. Makes you think of a beautiful woman of mystery."

"I guess by now Marek thinks I am somewhat of a mystery," Julie laughed. "Maybe that had something to do with it."

The blast of Jack's horn sent the girls dashing into their overalls.

"There's never late Parker," Kay said. "Honestly, that guy plans it so his car rolls to a stop at our curbstone at exactly the same second every night."

"We're lucky he promised to be our steady ride," Julie retorted. "Think of the trouble some of the girls have with late rides!"

"Oh I'm not complaining," Kay grinned.

Jack swung out of the car and opened the door for the girls as they came down the walk. Kay with a sparkle of mischief in her eyes stopped directly in front of him.

"I want you to meet my new friend," she said with formal stiffness. "Miss Mercedes La Cava, Mr. Jack Parker."

Jack looked puzzled and ran his fingers through his thick auburn hair.

"What's the gag?" he asked. Kay couldn't keep from laughing. "No gag at all—that's Julie's new movie name!"

"Jeepers," Jack cried, "sounds more like a racy foreign automobile to me."

The three climbed into the coupe and headed for the plant.

Under the bluish glare of the lights Julie worked with the smooth efficiency of a precision machine. The hours until the rest period seemed to pass like minutes. She felt the increasing tempo of excitement as she thought of the brilliant career that lay ahead of her. She had met a crisis in her life and she had met it in her stride.

The bell for the rest period rang sharply. Julie joined the others in the surge toward the cafeteria.

Inching along in the slowly moving line past steam tables and huge trays of food Julie picked out a ham sandwich and a cup of coffee.

The glass topped table accommodated eight and there were already seven workers eating hungrily when Julie edged her tray onto the crowded table and sat down. The girl next to her was leaning through a magazine. Suddenly she looked up at Julie and smiled. Julie's eyes followed her finger to the page of photographs.

"My gosh, sister, you look enough like this new La Cava woman to be her twin," the girl said.

Julie smiled. "There is a slight resemblance, but her face is much rounder than mine."

"Yeah, I guess you're right," the girl admitted. "But for a second there it was quite a jolt." She kept looking from the pictures to Julie. Suddenly she said in a loud voice that brought the attention of everyone at the table.

"Maybe I'm nuts, that's what I want to find out, but I'm going to pass the magazine around the table. See how many of you guys think these pictures of the new movie star Mercedes La Cava look like this gal next to me."

Each worker looked with interest at the pictures and then across at Julie. Julie could feel her face redden.

"I don't see much resemblance," one middle-aged woman said.

"They can do anything with make-up," said another. "I know. I used to work in the make-up department."

"I'd say she looked enough like her to apply for a job as stand-in," one red headed youth suggested.

The magazine had gone the rounds. Its owner was still staring at her face when Julie left the table. Julie got up at two that afternoon and slipped into her flannel robe and slippers quietly so as not to wake Kay still sleeping soundly in the other twin bed. She had heard the mailman when he slid a letter under their door.

Her mother's hand writing was on the envelope. She was conscious of the familiar pang of disappointment that it wasn't from Dave. As she was taking the letter from the envelope a yellow piece of paper fluttered to the floor. She picked it up and gasped. It was a check for a thousand dollars!

She read her mother's letter through once hurriedly and then again more slowly.

"Mr. Cooper sold the house last week to the Elk's Club," it said. "The price I had to take for it was ridiculous but when you're in need, people always manage to take advantage of you. Especially a lone woman. This is part of the down payment. There'll be more later."

Julie felt dazed as she walked back to the bedroom clutching the check in her hand. She took a shower and dressed. She was just taking her new white purse from the drawer when Kay raised up on one elbow and looked at her sleepily.

"Where you going so dressed up?" she said between a yawn.

"I'm walking over to the studio. Want to talk to Marek?" She took the check from the dresser and went over and sat on the side of Kay's bed. She handed it to her without saying a word.

"A thousand dollars!" Kay breathed in stunned amazement. "Is there really that much money left in the world?"

"Mother sold the house," Julie said simply.

Kay stared at the yellow paper.

motor than when the pistons are cold and contracted, provided the engine has light oil which doesn't stiffen up with cold.

Q. A friend told me that if I would always use a new gasket when installing a new spark plug I would be more sure of the plug points holding their gap. What does he mean? W. M. B.

A. If plugs are screwed in too tightly there is risk of twisting the shell and thus disturbing the gap. With a new gasket there is less risk of this since the gasket takes up strain if the wrench is turned a little too vigorously.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

"I've often wondered what I'd do if I ever got my mitts on that much money all at one time," she muttered.

Julie felt strength and hope surge through her as she walked briskly under the arch of shimmering pepper trees. There was a spicy sweetness in the air and the breeze came down the hills cool and fresh.

The uniformed guard at the studio desk smiled as he saw her swinging through the door in her new white silk sport dress and perky white hat.

for a prospective rise in living costs.Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) offered an amendment to that effect to fair that wages should be allowed

An unusual operation performed by a Mayo clinic surgeon for removal of a "parasitic twin" Friday had restored a 12-year-old Winnipeg,
Canada, boy to normal life.The operation was performed last October by Dr. Henry W. Meyerding on Ernie Defort who had been born with a partial Siamese twin attached to his body at his lower chest and upper abdomen. The twin was not a separate individual. There was no separate brain and the operation did not mean killing a being.In an operation lasting more than two hours, Dr. Meyerding disclosed he removed the twin body and within "three or four weeks" Ernie was back home in Winnipeg, ready to re-enter school. Today he is active in athletics, well up in his studies and living as a normal boy,

1,025 VETERANS
GET BENEFITSHarrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—Unemployment compensation benefits totaling more than $19,000 have been paid veterans of World War II who have filed claims with the Pennsylvania fund.William H. Chesnut, secretary of Labor and Industry, explained a provision of the law provides that any employee who entered the armed forces after March 31, 1940, and who has been honorably discharged retained his compensation rights."Approximately 1,025 veterans have been aided through this pro-vision in the law," said Chesnut in a statement, "and this money is paid the veteran at a time when he needs it the most; that is, when he begins to readjust himself to civilian life."These benefits are in the form of weekly payments which, depending upon the veteran's eligibility, may be in amounts of from $8 to $18
for a period of from 7 to 16 weeks, totaling between $56 and $288."Chesnut said veterans must be unemployed, able to work and available for work to secure the benefits, although if a veteran is physically unable to hold the same job he held before entering the service, but can do other work, he may still be eligible. Claims must be filed within a year after discharge from service.

Detention Homes Delinquency Cause

Uniontown, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—Lax administration of detention homes are responsible for "a good bit" of juvenile delinquency. Mrs. Marjorie Lenz, of York, Pa., a former probation official at Buffalo for 11 years, told a conference of juvenile court officials and other citizens of Fayette, Greene and Westmoreland counties.

In addressing the second annual Tri-County Child Guidance Conference here last night, she said: "Involuntary gathering places such as detention homes are hotbeds for breeding further delinquencies—all because of improper supervision.

"Persons often have a genuine interest in the welfare of inmates when they first take charge of detention homes but after this initial interest dissipates, supervision deteriorates into resultant increased delinquencies."

Hollywood's first picture of modern Australia, M-G-M's "The Man From Down Under," comes to the Majestic theatre Tuesday, starring Charles Laughton, Binnie Barnes, Cook and Horace McNally are featured in the supporting cast.

The story, which opens in Belgium in 1919 and runs through to the present day in Australia, recites the adventures of a blustering and thoroughly likable character, Jocko Wilson, a new addition to Laughton's long string of outstanding screen characterizations.

A four-star funfilm, produced by Paramount, is on its way to the Majestic theatre, loaded with laughs, gags and some mighty tuneful music. It is "True to Life," starring Mary Martin, Franchot Tone, Dick Powell and Victor Moore, and it opens next Wednesday for a two-day run.

"True to Life" tells what happens when a radio writer moves in on an average American family and proceeds to use its members and everything that happens to them, for a true to life air show, entirely unknown to them.

Pepper Would Pay Soldiers' Schooling

Washington, Feb. 12 (AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) is drafting a proposal to pledge the government to pay four years' schooling for men and women of the armed forces whose education was interrupted by the war.

Charging that the billion dollar veterans' educational bill reported favorably this week by the Senate Educational Committee contains limitations which threaten its "emasculating and nullification," Pepper declared it would have to be liberalized to be effective.

He said he hoped to have four other senators join him in a minority report assailing an amendment by Senator Ball (R-Minn.) under which the period of government-paid education would depend on the length of active service since Pearl Harbor.

1,025 VETERANS GET BENEFITS

Harrisburg, Feb. 12 (AP)—Unemployment compensation benefits totaling more than $19,000 have been paid veterans of World War II who have filed claims with the Pennsylvania fund.

William H. Chesnut, secretary of Labor and Industry, explained a provision of the law provides that any employee who entered the armed forces after March 31, 1940, and who has been honorably discharged retained his compensation rights.

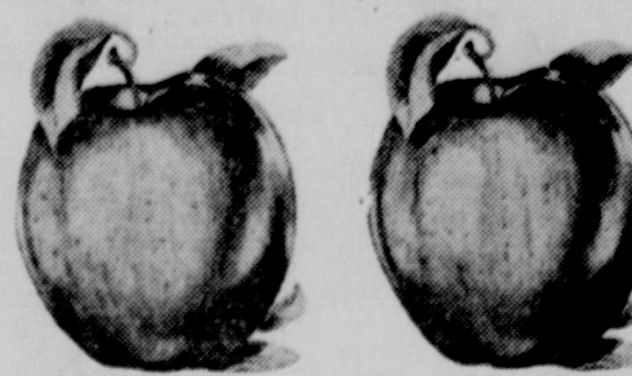

"Approximately 1,025 veterans have been aided through this provision in the law," said Chesnut in a statement, "and this money is paid the veteran at a time when he needs it the most; that is, when he begins to readjust himself to civilian life."

"These benefits are in the form of weekly payments which, depending upon the veteran's eligibility, may be in amounts of from $8 to $18 for a period of from 7 to 16 weeks, totaling between $56 and $288."

Chesnut said veterans must be unemployed, able to work and available for work to secure the benefits, although if a veteran is physically unable to hold the same job he held before entering the service, but can do other work, he may still be eligible. Claims must be filed within a year after discharge from service.
